These texts are available in the campus bookstore or from Amazon. Used editions are fine as are books borrowed from any library.

Student Learning Outcomes

Throughout the semester, you will be asked to demonstrate the following Student Learning Outcomes:

1. At the end of the course, the successful student will be able to recognize different literary periods within the span of English literature by identifying their distinguishing characteristics.

Assessment Method: This outcome will be assessed by a choice of the following methods: administering a test or quiz that asks students to identify a passage's literary period based on the characteristics evident in the passage; or by assigning a compare/contrast essay that asks students to compare and contrast works from two or more literary periods, noting accurately their defining characteristics.

2. At the end of the course, the successful student will be able to recognize different authors/poets within the range of English literature by their defining characteristics such as (but not limited to) language choice, imagery, theme, and context.

Assessment Method: This outcome will be assessed by a choice of the following methods: administering a test or quiz that asks students to identify authors/poets of a given passage. Or, assigning a compare/contrast essay asking students to compare and contrast two or more writers, noting accurately their distinguishing characteristics such as (but not limited to) language choice, imagery, theme, and context.

3. At the end of the course, the successful student will be able to analyze and "close read" a given passage for meaning and subtext by identifying literary elements such as (but not limited to) language, setting, imagery, tone, theme, and context and relating them to meaning.

Assessment Method: This outcome will be assessed by a choice of the following methods: administering a test, quiz, or essay that gives students a passage and asks them to contextualize and close read for meaning by analyzing and then discussing literary elements, such as (but not limited to) language, setting, imagery, tone, and then applying their analyses, using specific examples from the passage, to the themes of the work as a whole.

Communication

Communication skills will be developed in two key areas: verbal and written. We'll work on your verbal communication skills through in-class participation, query, and class presentations (individual and group). Therefore, class participation is very important. You'll also be asked to work in small groups on analyses and presentations of textual passages and to engage in peer review of other students' written work. In these situations it will be important to listen carefully and to respond thoughtfully to your peers when making comments and assessing their work. Throughout, the class atmosphere will remain positive and constructive.

We will also develop your written communication skill set through writing papers, quizzes, and in-class essay exams. During the semester we will focus on paper writing strategies including structuring essays, introductions, thesis, use of evidence, and conclusion writing. You will write four essays.

To make your writing persuasive, we will work on your research skills. Often the difference between a good argument and a weak one is the quality of your evidence and research.

Research: You will be asked to collect and organize research data. We will visit the library for a research orientation that will cover the university databases as well as how to evaluate sources and their reliability. During that session, you will find two sources from LRC or JSTOR for a research paper. We will also cover documenting those sources according to MLA style so that your sources are properly credited.

Course Objectives:

1. Students will learn to identify and compare characteristics common to writers within a literary period.
2. They will learn to contrast one literary period with another and thereby be able to differentiate among the literary periods.
3. Students will learn to distinguish one writer from another based on style and theme.
4. Students will learn to examine critically language and ideas as they learn to analyze literary texts.
5. They will learn to apply paradigms from psychology, sociology, philosophy, and theology to literary texts.
6. They will learn to illustrate their ideas and to demonstrate the validity of their ideas by citing examples from the text.
7. Students will learn to plan their essays. They will learn to formulate a clear, specific, focused thesis, to organize their ideas, and to compose an essay. They will learn to revise their essays into clear, well-written analyses of literary works.

Course Policies*Attendance

Attend every class. Arrive before the scheduled time with the necessary materials, texts and preparation. This way, you don't miss important information and instruction. Any more than 2 absences will have a significant impact on your final grade in this course. Because we only meet once a week, missing 2 classes will lower your maximum possible grade to a C. Missing 3 classes will fail you in the course. Arriving late and leaving early will count toward absences. There are no exceptions to the attendance rule for any reason. Minimize distractions by staying in the classroom through the entire period and turning off cell phones.

I encourage you to exchange phone numbers/e-mail addresses with reliable classmates to find out what you missed if you were absent.

Dropping the course

According to college policy, you may be excluded for excessive absences or for not following the Standards of Student Conduct (printed in the Schedule of Classes). If you drop the course, be sure to do so at the Admissions Office. Otherwise, the grade drops to a “D” or “F” and cannot be removed. Pay attention to drop dates in the Schedule of Classes.

Assignment Due Dates

Pay close attention to due dates for assignments as these are announced in class. On due dates for essays, essays must be turned in to the instructor. I do not accept essays e-mailed to me. Absence does not excuse you from turning in writing. I do not accept late assignments.

Please note:

- No eating in class.
- No talking without the instructor’s invitation to do so. Since fees have increased, nor more than ever it is important to remember that no student has the right to interfere with any other student’s learning process.
- No cell phones, no texting, no taking calls.
- No arriving late, leaving early or exiting during class.
- No late essays accepted.

On a more positive note, throughout the semester, I encourage you to see me during office hours as questions arise or with drafts of your papers. Please also use the Writing Lab tutors available on the first floor of the library or other tutorial services available on campus (such as EOP&S, DSPS, etc.) when you are working on drafts of your essays.

Your instructor does not CORRECT essays. This means that students are responsible for proofreading their own papers. Unacceptable papers will be returned without a grade. Your instructor “evaluates” essays and makes suggestions for improvements in organization, use of evidence, critical thinking, and style. Utilize online resources for working on and improving your writing, such as <http://owl.english.purdue.edu>.

Understand and avoid plagiarism – you can also refer to this website re. plagiarism: <http://www.indiana.edu/~wts/wts/plagiarism/htm>

You must turn in your own work (not a “modified” paper submitted for another class) and cite your sources appropriately, using MLA Style. We will go over MLA Style, but you are also expected to refer to your handbook for details relating to in-text citations and Works Cited.

Plagiarism is unacceptable and will result in a failing grade for the assignment and a permanent notation in your college file.

Attend all class sessions, do the required reading, thinking, rereading and writing. DO look up vocabulary words you’re not sure of. Observe due dates. Listen carefully and follow all instructions. Seek help as needed. Challenge yourself to do the very best work that you can.

Be sure to do the assigned readings on the syllabus before coming to class, preferably more than once. There may be unannounced quizzes to check on your comprehension of the readings. *These cannot be made up. Look up words you are unfamiliar with or unsure about to ensure accuracy in your understanding/comprehension.

Final Grade is based on instructor evaluation of all written work (quizzes, essays, exams, etc.) as well as meaningful participation in class; therefore, it is important not only to attend as often as possible but to come prepared to discuss the readings and to write in class. Research from credible sources and in-text citations, with correct MLA Style, are incorporated into some writing assignments as this is expected and required at 4-year institutions. *Quizzes and other assignments as specified also earn points toward your final grade, and cannot be made up.

All points count, including points for attendance and participation. No student will pass this course who does not hand in all writing assignments.

EXPLANATION OF GRADES

(All essays require in-text citation, MLA Style, and may require research.)

A work is exceptional in quality, well-organized and demonstrates a sensitive and resourceful use of language. It gracefully and effectively presents details, evidence, and examples to prove its thesis. It responds to the assignment in its focus and scope. The writing uses lively, well-chosen and precise vocabulary. It contains almost no errors in usage or spelling. Grammar, punctuation and spelling enhance meaning rather than make the essay hard to read.

B work is superior in quality but may be less thorough and graceful than A work. It contains few errors in usage or spelling.

C work is acceptable. It is clearly organized but usually repeats accurate but commonplace ideas in an unexciting manner. It contains errors in usage or spelling.

D work is barely adequate. Although it may be confusing, it shows some effort to engage the topic. It is usually full of serious errors.

F work is unacceptable. It is confusing, chaotic, full of errors in thought and usage.

Plagiarism is F work

Please keep all assignments and their grades/points in case there is a question about the grade.
