7. Art 202 Students shall incorporate all the above items into their work, develop their creativity through visual organization of content designed from various themes, ideas, topic research and appropriation of secondary visual information.

Course Requirements and Assignment Guidelines

Art materials and supplies

Art materials lists will be provided to you at the beginning of the course through email correspondence. Your first efforts will be to purchase the art materials and bring these to class at the next class session.

Exercises

All projects are preceded by a series of exercises that will familiarize you with studio technique being explored and to provide you with hands-on participatory practice. Exercises are similar to a quiz in a lecture class and should be considered an important aspect of your in-studio learning and part of your grade. Exercises will also be included in your Final Portfolio that you submit at the end of the semester.

Projects

There will be between 5 to 9 projects that together will form your portfolio. Students will begin planning and brainstorming stages of each project in class and you may commence working on you project after go ahead from instructor. Art studios are open studios and it is strongly recommended to return to the class to continue working from the studio still life set ups. Do not work from memory to complete you work - these projects are designed to develop your direct observation skills.

Exceptions

1. Each student may throw out their lowest score or a piece that they consider poor and not up to standards.
2. Art 202 and Art 203 students may also substitute one "Project of their choice" in lieu of the assigned project upon Instructor -student agreement.

Critiques

There are two mid-term Critiques about 5th and 10th weeks and one Final Critique- Final Portfolio submission where your best three pieces are presented. The Portfolio will contain all work completed during the course of the semester in chronological order, including exercises and rough sketches.

Late Assignments

It is practice to successfully complete all projects in time for critique. If your work is not completed or late, it is permissible to show your work however, no points toward that project will be awarded until that work is successfully and fully completed.

Progress Table/ Grading

Student progress is monitored by your instructor and is a tool to take advantage of during one on one discussions with your teacher. Your progress as well as some of your personal insights and Instructor comments are added to this Progress table. Copy of chart will be attached to Final Portfolio.

Grading is based on a points per progressively challenging project basis. All Exercises, Projects and related work are objectively evaluated and issued point values:

Exercises	Projects	Critiques (2)	Challenge Points
50 - 100 Points	150 -- 400 Points	100 - 300 Points	50 - 200 Points
Portfolio/Final Critique Point Totals
A+ 2745 to 3100	A 2744 to 2440	B 2136 to 2439	C 2134 to 1830	D 1829 to 1525
F Below 1525

Class Polices - Attendance

Art 202 is a college level course and attendance in mandatory. There are lecture and demonstration segments to every class meeting and in some cases, question and answer and/or discussions will form an integral part of your course work. It is important that you attend every class session. An absense will not release you from responsibility to submit a successfully completed portfolio and absence will not release you from due dates. You are responsible to turn in your work in accordance to times lines. Attendance is very important as is arriving on time and remaining in class for the scheduled amount of time.

Leaving Class Early

Please make all efforts to take care of personal matters such as using restroom, having a chance to eat, making phone calls/check messages, etc. This is a college level course and you must attend a specific number of hours to receive credit. Leaving class early equals an absense. Students will not be credited with having attended class for merely arriving and then leaving. Excessive leave earlies will result in your being excluded from class.

Preparedness/ Art Materials

Homework, research and readings are assigned for the students welfare and knowledge. Home work is designed to provide foundational understanding regarding process, techniques, of materials to be used and thus it is the students responsibility to complete any outside assignments. Moreover, one must bring their Art materials - paper, drawing materials, tool box etc to each class meeting.

Arriving without your materials is equal to an absense. Working on a project or assignments from another class will also result in your being recorded as absent for that day/evening.

Cell Phones

Place your cell phones on vibrate or OFF. As is indicated above under Leaving Class Early, personal matters such as communicating with others should be conducted prior to class meeting time. If you must arrange for transportation, this may be done upon taking a break and outside of the classroom. Cell phone calls are a distraction and the projects assigned in Art 202 require your unbroken attention.

Instructor-Student Communication

Please ask should at any time you have questions them. Email is the quickest form of communication with me should you have a question while we are outside of class. Always include your first and last name in your email messages.

Recording Devices

State law in California prohibits the use of any electronic listening or recording device in a classroom without prior consent of the instructor and college administration. If a student requires the use of electronic aids, they must first secure the consent of the Instructor and this notice of consent forwarded to the Vice President of Academic Affairs. This approval process is listed in WLAC catalog.

Student Conduct

Disruption of classes or college activities, loud and unruly behavior is prohibited and will not be tolerated. Refer to the Standards of Student Conduct in the WLAC schedule of classes for more information.

Library Services

Heldman Learning Resources Center (HLRC) (310) 287-4269 & (310) 287 4486
 Art Courses require as much research as any other academic discipline and the WLAC Library is a fine resource for all your research needs, to satisfy your curiosity and provide either answers to or a basis with which to formulate questions. The HLRC has a very large collection of books, periodicals, videos, and aslo research data bases. Web access is available in the adjacent LIRL and also meeting or study rooms.
