

Creative Arts Contest

It's time to speak out!

Topic: "Love's not supposed to hurt"

We want to hear your thoughts about relationship violence.

The entry should focus on your interpretation of: "Love's not supposed to hurt." Tell us about the meaning of the topic, its relationship to your life & perhaps even its wider significance to other college students. The winning entry will be published in a campus publication and/or used by the campus to promote awareness of domestic violence (anonymously or with credit given to the designer/author if desired). Entries will be judged on both style & content. Acceptable entries include an essay, poem/song, or something visual such as a poster.

Contest Rules:

1 entry per student

Entrants must be enrolled at this college

Essay must be no more than 500 words, typed and double spaced

Poem/song no more than 1 page

Poster is limited to 23"

Entries must be solely the work of the entrant

Entries will not be returned

Decisions of judges are final

1st Place Award: $200 Bookstore voucher

2nd Place Award: $100 Bookstore voucher

3rd Place Award: $50 Bookstore voucher

Winners will be announced on:
Wednesday November 19, 2008

Submissions may be made online to: BalitaC@wlaac.edu

Or delivered to: Bldg A13

Vice President, Student Services Office

Deadline: Friday, October 31, 2008

Sponsored by LACCD HART Healthy Advocacy Response Teams

Awards provided by The Office of Diversity Programs

Partnership with U.S. Department of Justice, Violence Against Women Office Program GRANT # 2004-WA-AJ-0015

